A CARD—NORWOOD.

Having resided at Norwood, since the month of October last, and being about to leave that village, I wish to be remembered to my many friends in that enterprising and thrifty village.
During my stay in Norwood it was my good fortune to stop with Peter Effertz, proprietor of Effertz Hotel, one of the best kept Hotels in the State, and it is my wish to say a word to the traveling public that they will find no more accommodating landlord and landlady than Mr. and Mrs. Effertz, and cheerfully recommend them to all visiting that town, knowing whereof I speak.

Then there is those prince of merchants, M. Simonitsch, Fred Hoeffken and Jas. Slocum Jr., who are ever ready to do a "stranger a good turn"—And I should not forget to mention Geo. Mix the genial agent, and Frank Jaberg the druggist physician of the village, and finally to the residents of Norwood and vicinity, I wish to return to one and all my heartfelt thanks for their uniform courtesy to me during my stay with them and I shall cherish the kindest feeling towards them wherever the wheels of fortune may take me.

CHASKA AS A WHEAT MARKET.

Two first class merchant flouring mill are a fixed fact in Chaska—one of them is already partly completed and work on the foundation of the other will be commenced next week. These mills will run day and night and will consume a large quantity of wheat and in order to draw the necessary amount, the proprietors will be required to pay Minneapolis prices, and they can well afford to, as it costs no more to ship flour from Chaska to the eastern markets than it does from Minneapolis, while the cost of living in Chaska is much lower than in the former place. So that it is safe to say that Chaska will be one of the leading wheat markets in the State this fall; our business will also thrive, and our merchants should make the necessary preparation to meet this extra demand.—We call their attention to the matter at this early day so that they may be fully prepared when the time comes.

THREE tickets in the field in Ohio and Iowa—with prospects of one or two more.

You take your choice &c.

The Democratic Judicial ticket in Chicago was elected by an average majority of over 5,000. The election was held last week.

The reported capture of Golt, the Sibley

County murderer, turns out to have been in correct. He is still at large, but strong hopes are entertained of his speedy capture.

THE DENNY wave is gathering force every day, and there is every prospect of his nomination for Lt. Governor. Wakefield is also largely in the lead. Keep the ball rolling.

GENL. THOS. EWING, has been nominated for Governor of Ohio, by the Democratic Convention, and Gen. Rice for Lt. Governor.

The ticket is strong one and the pending campaign will be one of the "hottest" in the history of Ohio.

Senator McMillan has introduced in Congress

a bill for granting a pension to Lucy

Shaska, widow of the Chaska who saved

the life of George H. Spencer and rendered great service to the whites during the service of the government, while employed as a scout. His widow resides in the Sixth ward, St. Paul.

[CHAPTER 19.]

In the last chapter the names of those who have been sent from this County as Senators and Representatives from the organization of the county up to and including the year 1870.

The thirteenth Legislature assembled in Saint Paul the 3d of January A. D. 1871.

L. L. Baxter again as Senator, and J. A.

C. Flood as Representative.

Mr. Flood is well known as one of the first settlers of the county, having settled in Watertown and there engaged in the mercantile business when that town was a

"flouring wilderness"—to his ability, en terprise and liberality, undoubtedly Wat ertown is partly indebted for her present position as one of the leading villages of the County. The popularity of Mr. Flood may be judged somewhat, from the fact, that he was elected representative by the people of the county at a time when his party was largely in the minority. He declined the nomination for a second term and has remained in private life since that time.

Fourteenth Legislature assembled Jan'y.

1872 with L. L. Baxter again as Senator, and C. H. Lienau, Charles Johnson and F.

E. DuToit as Representatives, all the above gentlemen have been mentioned in connection with other positions of honor and trust they have occupied in the county.—

They all reside here, except Mr. Lienau who resides in St. Paul as business manager of one of the principal German newspapers of the west the Volkszeitung of that city.

Fifteenth Legislature met in January

1873.

L. L. Baxter as Senator, F. E. Du Toit,

Charles W. Bachmann and Mathew Kelly

as Representatives.

Mr. Bachmann went to Young America

at an early day, and has devoted his time mostly to his trade as an architect, builder and contractor. Some of the finest Churches,

Halls and School houses in this and adjoining counties were designed and built by him. He is a gentleman well posted on scientific subjects including music, politics, theology and biology. He made a good and popular representative—he declined to be a candidate for a second term.

Mr. Kelly was one of the first settlers of Hollywood, having settled there on the farm he now occupies about the year 1857.

He emigrated from the "emerald island"

when quite young and commenced work in one of the iron foundries at Troy New York as a common laborer, and eventually became overseer of the establishment.—

Mr. Kelly has held numerous offices in his town and County, the duties of which he has performed with credit to himself and the entire satisfaction of his constituents.

Sixteenth Legislature assembled Jan'y.

1874.

L. L. Baxter Senator. Representatives

E. B. Harrison, Henry R. Denny and John

Truett.

Mr. Harrison is a farmer and resides in Chanhassen. He emigrated from that country over whose vast domains the sun never sets. He is a man of energy and ability, and made a good representative.

Mr. Denny is a representative man of his party, takes a lively interest in political matters, as well as those matters which tend to promote the welfare and prosper ity of his town, county and state. He is held in high esteem by men of all parties and nationalities—Probably future honors await him.

Mr. Truett was a farmer at the time and resided in Camden where he had one of the best farms in the County. He is now engaged in the mercantile business at

Young America, as a farmer, speculator, legislator or merchant he is a success.

Seventeenth Legislature assembled at St. Paul Jan'y 1875.

Senator, C. H. Lienau. Representatives

L. L. Baxter, Christ Ackermann and John

G. Maetzel.

Mr. Lienau is well known as having been a member of the Legislature from Ramsey County, likewise from this County. He acquired quite a state reputation while in the Senate as the author of Merrill text Book law. He is a man of ability, yet be lieving in a man of positive ideas and fearless

in their advocacy he may have made some enemies that a man of more conservative proclivities would have avoided.

Mr. Ackermann was one of the early settlers of Young America. He was large ly engaged in merchandize and milling at the time, under the firm name of Ackermann

Bros. He was always considered one of the leading men of that town. He now resides in the city of New York extensively engaged in the flour and grain business.

He declined to be returned a second time to the Legislature.

John G. Maetzel is an old settler of the county, first few years resided on his farm

in Laketown, afterwards moved to Waconia

and became the proprietor of the principal Hotel there and was acknowledged to be one of the best conducted Hotels in the County while under his care. He held the office of County Commissioner a number of years, and in that capacity as well

DIED.

At St. Paul, Monday morning, June 9th 1879, Michael Ess, aged 87 years.

Michael Ess, was born in the village of Burgberg, Kingdom of Bavaria, and settled on a farm in the town of Chanhasen in the year 1855, and was well known to all the old settlers of the county. Man with all his endowments, is in many things most foolish, he will give all that he has for his life, but is reckless and indifferent to his health. He will grapple a thief who steals his purse, yet will daily with a cough and cold and finally go into consumption, when such a sure remedy as Elett's Extract of Tar and Wild Cherry can be easily obtained. ### CURRENT TOPICS.

QUININE, which is indispensable as a remedy for diseases particularly prevalent in this country, is protected to the extent of $720,000 a year for the benefit of two firms in Philadelphia, who monopolize the trade, and each of whom is said to be worth $10,000,000. This is a bitter commentary on legislation and humanity.

No more vivid illustration of the wondrous change of sentiment in this country during the last half century can be found than the fact that William Lloyd Garrison, who was once mobbed in the city of Boston, and whose life was frequently threatened in the North as well as in the South, is now mourned by a nation.

The hotel keepers about Vesuvius are regaining equanimity. Vesuvius is moved with envy at the successful exhibition of her rival Etna. She has consented to make an effort. The results up to date are inconsiderable, but the hotel men are encouraged to hope for a long run of the lava show when once fairly started.

A remarkable breach of promise case has been tried in London. Mr. Jackson contracted to marry Miss Paris. Subsequently he became insane, whereupon Miss Paris sued him for not marrying her, and has actually recovered $250. The Lord Chief Baron ruled that the action could be maintained, and that the defendant's insanity did not make a bit of difference. It was argued that by his insanity he was incapacitated for marriage by his lunacy, he all the more needed a wife to take care of him.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD has stopped chasing Indians and begun a hunt after Oregonians. He finds that the Unutilla Indians have suffered bad treatment at the hands of the Unutilla whites, among whom there is said to be a secret society for taking the scalp of the red man wherever it may be found. He has written to Governor Thayer asking that the whites be warned, and the Governor replies that whatever can be done.

PREPARATIONS for the reproduction of the French Revolution on an extensive scale in Russia are in rapid progress. The government slashes right and left in the dark at an enemy seen by glimpses; then huffs post phantasms and burn towns. Car rides in an iron-clad car surrounded by troops, and the female nihilists without these protections is shot to death when suspicion rises upon her. These are the pictures which Russia presents to-day. The scenes will become even more savage if the revolutionists ever obtain the upper hand.

It is stated that the Secretary of State Everts began his business career as a newspaper writer, but that he now takes pride in that early occupation. The Secretary is sensible; for hundreds of brilliant men have lived and died in newspaper obscurity. Still, if the Secretary had stuck to journalism he might now be the honored editor of a country weekly, instead of Secretary of State, forced to write three-column leaders to the foreign representatives of the Government, and likely to be asked to resign at any time.

AMANDA REYNOLDS, aged fifteen years, of Paterson, N. J., while picking with her finger at the corner of a decayed tooth on Thursday, the 23d inst., loosened it so that it was easily detached by her mother with a double thrust. Since then blood has been flowing with slight cessation. A number of physicians and dentists have tried their best to stop the flow, but it is so persistent that several times hemorrhages have gushed from the girl's ears and nostrils. She was in vigorous health, but is now pale and extremely weak.

PORTLAND, the British penal servitude establishment, is a penitentiary on the coast of Dorsetshire, and a dreary place enough, being a vast hill with a circumference of several miles at its base, upon which are dotted several villages, containing in all about 1,000 inhabitants. The prisons crown the summit of the hill. Out of the hill convicts have the Portland stone, a most durable mineral, hardening by exposure, of which St. Paul's and other famous edifices are built. The Portland breakwater, one of the three or four greatest works of the world, is the result of convict labor.

While a traveling manager was holding his exhibitions at Le Mans, in France, a lion escaped from its cage through the negligence of an attendant. The animal paced up and down the tent quietly, but naturally excited great alarm. The proprietor of the collection, to prevent him from doing any mischief, threw to his majesty an abundant supply of raw meat. The plan succeeded admirably, for the lion, after gorging himself with an unusually ample meal, walked quietly back into his cage and went to sleep. As soon as the occurrence became known the municipal authorities ordered the menagerie to quit the town without delay.

The New York Medical society appointed a committee to investigate into the sicknesses and deaths caused by the noise of the elevated railroad, which, in petitions against the road, was credited with working evils of the most alarming character. The society, after eight months of expectancy, learn from their committee that it has nothing to report, no such cases as those alleged having come to its notice. For people whose nerves can stand the din of a great city with the hoarse bawling of street peddlers during the day, and at night the love-sick wailing of cats or the prolonged vocal agonies of a thousand dogs as they complain to the moon, the roar and rattle of a train of cars cannot be expected to have many terrors.

FOLD IT AWAY.

Empty the basket, the caged bird thrown. Back again, back again, earth take thy own; Thou who didst give it, thy fairest of clay. Clasp thy arm tenderly, fold it away.

Fold it away for the loved one has fled, Fold it away for our hero is dead, Fold it away—fold it away for our hero is dead.

Carried most lovingly over the sea, Bring our hero's body up to the shore; Wanderers over, and full garlands won, Reverently bring the dust of thy son.

Leave us our treasures his life and his songs, Take in thy keeping what we have taken; Take the wayfarer's inn, God has blessed; Ours are the memories, thine is the rest.

Back again, back again, earth unto earth! Cradle his slumbers who cradled his birth; Fold it away for the loved one has fled, Fold it away for our hero is dead.

SCARED.

The hardships and perils of life upon the border were not all endured by our forefathers. Even now upon the remote frontier there are people living through hours of privation and terror, which we, in our safe and convenient homes, know nothing of.

The adventure related in this simple sketch, happened a few months since, upon the Kansas frontier, during the late troubles with the Cheyenne Indians.

Mr. Hulson, a former resident of Indiana, had met with business reverses, and he had been driven from his home to begin life anew in the far west. He gathered what little household property was left to him, and in a wagon drawn by two horses journeyed to his new home.

He selected land far from any railroad or settlement, because such land was cheaper, and having built himself a log cabin, he began to make a home for himself and his family.

The Indian troubles began during the second year, and caused the family a good deal of anxiety. They were not molested, however, and began to feel almost easy again. One day Mr. Hulson had gone to his nearest neighbor's, a distance of several miles, with his horses and wagon.

Mr. Hulson was in the house, and he was alone. He was sitting in the great fire-place. She needed a bucket of water, and started to get it, when she reached the door of the cabin, she saw a dozen Indians coming directly to the house.

They did not see her. Without waiting to fasten the door, she caught her baby, an infant of eight months, from its box-cradle, and in her fright rushed up the ladder which she had made, and into the house to a loft above.

Laying the baby on a pile of quilts, with desperate strength she pulled the ladder up after her, and shut down the trap. The door crashed, and she was left by the chimney with her babe in her arms.

The savages entered the lower room, and commenced searching and plundering. They found nothing of value, and they left the house.

They snatched the clean, blue woolen coverlets and blankets from the beds and wrapped themselves in them, threw the pillows on the floor and sat down. The women were passing through a machine which cut them into "splints," round or square, of the thickness of a match, but twice its length. The machine is capable, as we saw, of making about 2,000 splints a day.

This number seems immense when compared with the most that could be made by hand. These splints are then taken to the "setting" machine, and there they are bundled into bundles of sixteen inches in diameter, every splint separated from its neighbor by a little space, so that there may be no sticking together after the "dipping." In the operation of "setting" a ribbon of coarse stuff, about an inch and a half wide and an eighth of an inch thick, is rolled up, the splints being laid across the ribbon between each two splints. The splints are then rolled up, and the bundles are dipped into the molten sulphur, and then spread out on a board to dry.

When the bundles are dipped, they are placed in a machine, which is a sort of a wheel, and the splints are rolled up, and the bundles are dipped into the molten sulphur, and then spread out on a board to dry.

After which the company gave three rousing cheers for their foreman. The company then adjourned to Chris's, and had a little fun at Fred's expense.

PERSONAL.—The effect of the senior proprietor of this office having become a Benedict is becoming manifest. Yesterday our office was honored by a visit from three beautiful young ladies, and the foreman was for a very short time altogether too short, in fact engaged in explaining to the visitors the uses of presses, forms, types and rules. He did not undertake to show the ladies how to make "p" because he was afraid there would be some "cuss" words used and that would be contrary to the rules of the office.
Those ladies and all their friends have a cordial invitation to call again.

The Grand Grove of the United Ancient Order of Druids met in annual session at this place on Tuesday morning, the session continuing at intervals until Wednesday afternoon.

The various reports presented show the Order to be in a prosperous condition, there being twenty subordinate Groves in the State, with a membership of over eleven hundred—an increase of three Groves and over two hundred members.
A large amount of routine business was transacted, and sundry important constitutional amendments made, the details of which will be communicated to the subordinate Groves through official channels.
The officers elected and installed for the ensuing year were as follows:

The old board of Directors was re-elected, viz: L. F. Hulbark, W. P. Brown, Red Wing; L. Z. Rogers, Waterville; J. F. Meagher and J. A. Wiswell, Mankato.

Secretary—L. Z. Rogers.

Treasurer—J. F. Meagher.

The Sixty-ninth (Irish) regiment of New York intended to visit Montreal on Dominion Day, but the Canadian government has rescinded its permission to do so in consequence of the admitted hostility of the organization; and the rule now is to exclude all American troops bearing arms.

Some of the members of the Sixty-ninth, or their indiscreet friends, have indulged in a good deal of foolish talk in New York papers, and the result is just what might have been expected.

The town of Chanhassen refuses to go to the expense of building a road across the marsh, opposite the Shakopee bridge, at an enormous expense, the costly corner cut blazoned upon Shakopee's brow bids fair to be more ornamental than useful.—Advocate.

Bah! Don't be too fast. The people of Chanhassen will undoubtedly do as they agreed to, every time. SHAKOPEE CORNER.

Foiled again! The people of Chanhassen don't propose to pay a cent for a new road on this side of the river—now you mark it. If Shakopee wants a road on this side of the river, let them build it, with their own money, and Chanhassen won't object to it. No marsh road for them, and don't you forget it, either!

The exp'ds coming up the Mississippi and soon will be conspicuously placed on the opposite side of our river, so that the Carver county farmers can haul wheat over here next fall.—SHAKOPEE CORNER.

Hurry up with your bridge. Have it completed by the time our two new merchant mills are completed, for we shall want 2000 bushels of wheat every 24 hours to turn our running, and we expect that Scott county farmers will furnish their quota as they did to our elevators last fall.—the only difference being that we shall hereafter pay Minneapolis prices for every bushel of wheat marketed in our city, being from 3 to 5 cents more than Shakopee can pay.

A CARD.

EDITOR VALLEY HERALD.

Whereas certain parties consider themselves outraged by an item that recently appeared in the HERALD relating to the Mass-meeting held in Watertown and credit me with the "offspring" in very unfriendly terms. In justice to myself I feel compelled to disclaim the paternity. I NEVER SAW THE ITEM UNTIL AFTER IT WAS PUBLISHED. Hence take this method of establishing my nonconnection with it.

I think Messrs. Kuntz and Hill are to be complimented for having endeavored to preserve order at that memorable "pic-nic."

I hope my friends, and "otherwise," will hold a family reunion over this item for it is the last that I shall father, unless written over by my bonafide signature.

Until death or sooner etc.

Carver County—Its Towns and Some of the Early Settlers.

The fourth newspaper published in the County was the Carver Independent and was printed and published at Carver by Francis Belfoy Esq. from the year 1886 to 1888.

Mr. Belfoy had published a newspaper at Henderson a number of years prior to his removal here. Mr. Belfoy was a lawyer as well as a practical printer. He published and edited the Independent at Carver for about two years, after which he removed to Littlefield Meeker County where he continued in the newspaper business, still practicing his profession as an attorney.

He was a good writer as well as a good lawyer. As an attorney he was industrious, careful, reliable, courteous, and a fluent and logical speaker, although well posted in all the departments of the law, many considered that he excelled in criminal jurisprudence. He is now at Littlefield in Meeker County practicing the profession of the law and also editing the Littlefield News Leader, as successor to the late Frank Daggett.

The next paper published in the County was the Carver Free Press established in the year 1875, W. R. Cotton editor and proprietor. Mr. Cotton was one of the best practical printers in the State, almost all his whole life had been spent in a printing office, and his paper was characterized by typographical neatness and exactness. As a writer he excelled at barleque, it particularly appeared in his account of the "Peoples Convention" at John Etzels in Laketown in the fall of 1875. It was thought by some of Mr. Cottons best friends that his usefulness was somewhat impaired by his too frequent indulgence, in putting an enemy to his lips which, too much excited his brain. Mr. Cotton sold the Press in the early part of 1878 to W. C. Breidenhagen and Wm. Benson Esq., the paper was soon enlarged under their management and it is now one of the largest and best conducted newspapers in the State. Mr. Benson has been County Superintendent of Schools for a number of years, and his popularity and efficiency as a public officer may be judged by the fact that he is the only officer of the County whose salary was increased when in office.

Mr. Benson is an able writer as was fully demonstrated by numerous articles in the Press on "salaries."

Mr. Bradenbagen is now the sole publisher and editor of the Press and as a business manager and editor he ranks as No. 1 in the profession. Mr. William Meachler, a first class printer has charge of the typographical department.

In closing this chapter the writer will say that he may at some future time give to the readers of the HERALD what he knows about the towns of the County and some of the early business men and pioneer farmers, at which time he may give a birds eye history of the various societies which have and now do exist in the different towns, including the incorporated Singing Societies, County Agricultural Society, Masonic, Druids, Sons of Hermann, Old Fellows and Temperance Societies.

Houghton, and wife, Dr. Lewis, and wife, Mr. Anderson, and wife all of Carver. There were some 80 fish caught, mostly bass; a pike was captured weighed very near 20 pounds. A grandiloquent gas-trousers temperance reform lecture, was listened to here a few days ago, and our candid belief is that no one but a lunatic would sit and listen to such a harangue. When will such bogus apostles of reform (eh?) give us a rest?

There has been some talk of establishing a telegraph line between here and Delano. W. C. Landis, Esq. of the latter place and F. A. Flood of this village are the projectors.
